I. How to Fill Out the Forms

Read each section carefully.

Choose which sections you wish to use. Sections I and VI are required. If you aren't sure whether or not you want to use section II, appointing an agent, find out if your state's law requires an agent for mental health decision making. Your state protection and advocacy agency may be able to tell you. Sections III, IV and V are optional and cover the substance of your instructions.

If you decide to appoint an agent, make sure he or she understands your wishes and is willing to take the responsibility. Your agent and alternate agent(s) should sign the form to show acceptance of the responsibility.

Talk over your choices with your treating providers and your case manager.

Fill in only the choices you want in sections III, IV and V. Your advance directive should be valid for whatever part(s) you fill in, as long as it's properly signed. You may cross out and/or write in words or sentences (or rewrite, if you are editing the document on a computer).

To indicate which choices you want, put your initials in the blank at the beginning of a statement. If you do not want a statement to be true, leave the blank empty.

Add any special instructions in the spaces provided. Be sure you also put your initials in the blank at the beginning of that segment to make your choices valid. You can write additional instructions or comments on a separate sheet of paper, but be sure to write on the form that there are additional pages.

Complete the checklist attached to section I to show at a glance what your advance directive covers.

Assemble the completed sections, renumber the pages and sign section VI before two witnesses (see the list on the signature page of people who cannot be your witness). Some states may require a notary's signature as well; if you are not sure, it's best to have the document notarized.

Have copies made and give them to your doctor(s), the individual(s) you have appointed to make mental health care decisions for you, your family and anyone else who might be involved in your care. Explain your choices to each of them

II. Frequently Asked Questions

Can I change my mind?

You can revise your advance directive at any time unless you have been declared legally incompetent. However, state laws vary about whether you may revoke your advance directive or overrule your own agent after becoming incapacitated. Part V spells out some options describing when you want to be able to revoke, suspend or end this advance directive. A lawyer can explain your state's law in this regard. (Note that only a few states have any specific law on this. As of 1997, Alaska, Hawaii, Illinois, Maine, Minnesota, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah and West Virginia do.)

Should I see a mental health professional before signing an advance directive?

For your advance directive to be valid, you must be legally competent when you sign it. To protect yourself against any claim that you were not competent when you signed your advance directive, you can ask a mental health professional to conduct a mental status exam and note in your medical record file that you were of sound mind at the time. Ask for a signed copy of this note, and attach it to your advance directive. This is not absolutely necessary, but it can head off future challenges.

What to do when you are finished?

You want your advance directive to be an active part of your medical record. It is a good idea to discuss your choices with your case manager and treating providers. Your advance directive is more likely to be remembered and followed if you have told them about it and explained to them the choices you made, and why.

When will my advance directive take effect?

Your advance directive will become active, under most states' laws, when a doctor, usually your treating physician, determines that you are not capable of making health care decisions on your own behalf.

Who should have copies?

Your treating professionals should have copies of your advance directive. Your agent, if you appoint one, and each alternate agent you name should have a copy. Also consider giving copies to family members, close friends, the hospitals or programs where you might be taken in an emergency, your managed care firm (if you have one) and your other service providers. If you make changes, be sure to let everyone who has a copy know. For this reason, you'll want to keep track of who has copies; a form for doing this is attached to the signature page.

If you travel, be sure to take a copy with you. And keep the original in an easily accessible place.

How will anyone know I have an advance directive?

A form that advises physicians and others of your advance directive appears below. It is designed to fit in your wallet. Complete the information on the form, cut it out, fold it in half and keep it in your wallet.

PHYSICIANS AND OTHERS PLEASE NOTE:

I have an advance directive for mental health decisionmaking, a legal document stating my preferences as to psychiatric hospitalization and treatment. A copy may be found at:

If I am incapacitated, please obtain this document and respect the choices I have registered in it.

My name: _____

My SS#: _____

I have appointed as my agent for mental health decisionmaking _____ who can be reached at _____ (day) or _____ (evening). This person is authorized to make all decisions about my psychiatric treatment in the event that I am incapable of making such decisions.

Part I. Statement of Intent

I, (your name) _____, being of sound mind, willfully and voluntarily execute this health care advance directive to assure that, during periods of incapacity or incompetency resulting from psychiatric or physical illness, my choices regarding my mental health care will be carried out despite my inability to make informed decisions on my own behalf. In the event that a guardian or other decisionmaker is appointed by a court to make health care decisions for me, I intend this document to take precedence over all other means of ascertaining my intent while competent.

By this document, I intend to create an advance directive for health care as authorized by state law, the U.S. Constitution and the Federal Patient Self-Determination Act of 1990 (P.L. 101-508) to indicate my wishes regarding mental health treatment. To the extent, if any, that this document is not valid under state law, it is my desire that it be considered a statement of my wishes and that it be accorded the greatest possible legal weight and respect. I understand that this directive will become active and take effect upon my incapacity to make my own mental health decisions and shall continue in effect only during that incapacity.

My wishes expressed in this document should be honored whether or not my agent dies or withdraws or if I have no agent appointed at the time of the execution of this document. If I have not named an agent, these instructions shall be binding upon whomever may be appointed as my agent or other decisionmaker.

The fact that I may have left blanks in this advance directive (i.e., not completed certain sections) should not affect its validity in any way. I intend that all completed sections be followed. If I have not expressed a choice, my agent should make the decision that he or she determines is the decision I would make if I were competent to do so.

If any part of this advance directive is invalid or ineffective under relevant law, this fact should not affect the validity or effectiveness of the other parts. It is my intention that each part of this advance directive stand alone. Even if some parts are invalid or ineffective, I desire that all other parts be followed.

I intend this mental health care advance directive to take precedence over any and all living will documents and/or durable power of attorney for health care documents and/or other advance directives I have previously executed, to the extent that they are inconsistent with this document.

Note to Provider: The next page is a checklist of the sections I have completed. Failure to follow the instructions in these sections (or the requests of my agent), even in emergency situations, may result in legal liability for professional misconduct and/or battery. I include this statement to express my strong desire for you to acknowledge and abide by my rights, under state and federal laws, to influence decisions about the care I will receive.
